CATTLE DIE FROM LACK OF FOOD.

Scarcity of Hay in Northern New Hampshire Causes Much Hardship.

Manchester, N. H., March 28.—A scarcity of hay in the northern counties of New Hampshire has caused much hardship to horses and cows owned by small farmers. Many animals are in such a weakened condition as a result of feeding through the winter on straw and other substitutes for hay that their usefulness has been seriously impaired.

The matter came to light through an investigation by an agent of the Animal Rescue league who was called to the town of Lyme. He found more than a dozen cases there, and all were declared to be of an aggravated character. In one case out of a herd of 57 cows that had been fed on nothing but straw during the winter, 15 were condemned, of which five were killed. More than a dozen other animals were slain because of their weakened condition.

"I AM THE TURKEY."

STATES UNCLE JOE.

Cannon Tells a Little Story in Regard to the President's Remarks on Tariff.

Washington, March 28.—There is one doubting Thomas. There is one who does not believe the president wants tariff revision—but that his demand for it in his message to Congress was a campaign plea. The doubter is Uncle Joe and he expressed his belief yesterday this wise:

"Uncle Joe" said Frank Lowden, "the president didn't call you on tariff revision did he?"

"Frank" said Uncle Joe, twining his arm in that of the millionaire member from Illinois who lives in a "farrahouse" about the same size, altitude and gormousness as the Waldorf-Astoria, "one time I bought a turkey from a colored constituent of mine. He assured me that it was a domestic turkey. When I had it cooked and started to eat it I found it was full of shot. I put him on the street a few days later and I said:

"Sam, you black rascal that was a wild turkey you sold me. He was plumb full of shot."

"Sam looked at me pathetically and said: 'Deed, Boss, that shot wasn't fired at the turkey.'"

Here Uncle Joe winked portentously and said:

"Frank, I am the turkey."

DRINK SOUR MILK AND LIVE TO AGE OF 120.

Bishop Fallows Lays Down A Set of Rules to Prevent The Hardening of Arteries; Says They're Scientific.

Chicago, March 28.—Samuel Fallows, bishop of the Reformed Episcopal church and founder of Christian psychology—a combination of faith cure and medicine—now in his 73rd year, believes that men ought to be in their prime at 80 and live to be 120 years old. Here is the explanation he says:

Drink sour milk or pure buttermilk two or three times a day.

Avoid too strenuous living.

Go to bed early and get up with the rising sun.

Take plenty of exercise of a kind not associated with your actual employment.

Obey rigidly the laws of hygiene.

Keep a clear conscience.

Love God and be square with your fellow-man.

Drink some more sour milk.

The prelate said: "I am indebted for my material to three sources:

"1.—The Bible.

"2.—A newly published book by Prof. Elie Metchnikoff, a French scientist.

"3.—Science in general.

"Metchnikoff, one of the professors in the Pasteur institute in Paris, is the greatest exponent in the world of the theories of Darwin. It is his business to hunt up diseases and their remedies. In a new book Metchnikoff points out that the reason men do not live to a great age is because under modern conditions the arteries harden with advancing age, due to deposits of calcareous substances. He has discovered that the antidote for this condition is sour milk.

"Now, as to the scientific theory. Research has proved that the multitude of adolescents in animals is six. That is, they ordinarily live six times the length of their infancy. Man reaches maturity at 20 years. Multiplying that by 6 gives 120 years, the natural age of man, according to the laws that govern animals of the lower order.

"Now, with man the multiple is only 3½—that is, if he reaches maturity at 20, he has lived almost a third of his existence according to the present standard and length of life."

HOW TO WIN BATTLES.

Men Who Hit What They Shoot at Are the Determining Factor in War.

Other things being equal, good shooting is the determining factor in war. Poorly drilled and hastily organized bodies of men can give a good account of themselves if they know how to shoot and hit what they shoot at.

In our war for independence, says Army and Navy Life, the colonists were woodsmen. They carried and used their arms to supply their homes with food and to protect them from the savage. As marksmen they vastly outclassed the British, and that more than anything else gave Washington the final victory.

Again, in our great civil war mark the effect of a general knowledge of firearms. In the south were sporting people. They were fond of riding and hunting. Shooting at target and at game entered into their sports and pastimes. The north was commercial. Its men knew little or nothing of firearms save the blunders of their grandfathers, objects of curiosity in their shops or homes, except in the far west, where the life of 1776 was still being lived. The result was that in the east the southern troops were generally victorious for a couple of years until the northern troops learned to shoot. What little success the north had was in the west, where they were little better than a standstill.

A Cause For Thanks.

In the audience at a lecture on China there was a very plump old lady who was slightly deaf. She thought the lecturer was preaching, and every time he came to a period she would say "Amen!" or some other pious exclamation. The people in the audience, which was composed mostly of the village church members, knew she was being reverent and did not even smile when she exclaimed until finally the lecturer mentioned some far-off city in China, saying: "I live there." At this point clearly and distinctly could be heard the old lady saying, "Thank God for that."

An Unusual Task.

"Hello, Jack, old boy, writing home for money?"

"No."

"What are you taking so much trouble over, then? You're been fussing and fuming over it for the last two hours."

"I'm trying to write home without asking for money."

Then He Was Mad.

"Why don't you give the devil his due?" he snarled.

"I can't, dear," replied his wife. "You're in such fine health now he may have to wait awhile."—Atlanta Constitution.

Remarkable.

"She's the most remarkable elderly woman I ever saw."

"Doesn't show her age?"

"Not that! Doesn't seem to regret it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

One wise counsel is better than the strength of many.—Euripides.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear if the Advice of This Barre Citizen Is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains. Most times 'tis the kidneys' fault. Backache is really kidney ache; That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Many Barre women know this. Read what one has to say about it: Mrs. M. M. Nelson of 18 West street, Barre, Vt., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at E. A. Brown's drug store, eight years ago, benefited me so greatly that I gave for publication a statement telling of my satisfactory experience with them. At that time a severe attack of the grippe had left my kidneys in a weakened condition, and instead of getting better I grew worse. The slightest household tired me and if I were on my feet much sharp pains caught me across my back and compelled me to stop and rest. Other complications came on and trouble with the kidneys set in. I paid out over a hundred dollars for doctor's bills and medicines, but got no relief. I was finally advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills and did so. I received relief from the first few doses and as I continued using the remedy the attack from which I was suffering was completely relieved. Since then I have never been without Doan's Kidney Pills in the house and have always used them, with the same beneficial results. I am always glad to recommend this reliable medicine to my friends and acquaintances."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

HER GOLDEN BALL.

An Incident of Revolutionary Times on Long Island.

Probably no game of ball by professional or college team was ever watched with such inner interest, but with such outward indifference, as one described in Gertrude Vanderbilt's "Social History of Fiddlers." It happened in Revolutionary times, when the British soldiers were stationed on Long Island. The inhabitants had hidden their valuables in all possible places. One lady concealed some gold coins in a ball shaped cushion of the kind worn by the Dutch housewife, suspended at her side.

She was sitting sewing one day when a party of British soldiers entered the room. A young officer, spying what to him was a novelty, cut with his sword the ribbon by which the cushion was hung and began a game of ball.

Soon the rest of the company joined the sport. Boisterously from hand to hand the ball was tossed and fro. It was roughly snatched and tossed, and sometimes it fell into the ashes of the fireplace and barely escaped confiscation. Now and again a soldier would catch it on the tip of his sword and send it spinning on with a rent in its side.

Every moment threatened to reveal the precious contents. To show the least anxiety was to betray the secret, and the owner was forced to sit unmoved, apparently intent on her work, and to see her fortune flying through the air at the mercy of the enemy. At last the cushion, torn and battered, but still guarding its treasure, was returned to its mistress, and the intruders, tired of their play, left the house.

Couldn't Tell.

"Is marriage a failure?" asked the old bachelor of the young bride.

"I don't know yet," replied the bride innocently. "You know, my husband does not get paid until next Wednesday."—Detroit Free Press.

There will be a meeting of the New England Order of Protection Monday evening. All members are requested to be present as there is initiation.
